Nuno Miguel Andrade was born in Lisbon, in 1974. He currently lives and works in Almada, where he combines his personal projects with his work as an architect and designer. He studied photography at the Maumaus School between 1993 and 1995, and in the Atelier of Lisbon between 2014 and 2016. In the last years Nuno has been developing a documentary based work, where he explores the places and the people who share the city he lives, having Tagus River as a guide and a reference element. Nuno's work has already been exhibited in Lisbon, New Delhi and Goa. He was an award finalist at Photography Biennial of Vila Franca de Xira, in 2016.
